From The Director's Desk: The Best Places to Read

Where is the best place to read a book? Some people say every book has its season. I contend that every book has a particular place that will enrich its reading.

I find that cozy English mysteries are best read when you are wrapped in a soft quilt, on a big couch, in front of a fire in the fireplace. In this setting it doesn't take a lot to imagine the weekend gone awry at an English country estate. Summer is the best time to read pot-boilers. Could you imagine reading Judith Krantz's steamy book Scrubles anywhere else but on a sandy beach?

Isn't a cookbook better when it is read in the kitchen? When I read Julie and Julia by Julie Powell, I always found myself sitting in the kitchen. Of course I was reading while waiting for cookies to come out of the oven! I am a fan of management expert Peter Drucker, but as much as I like him, he can't hold my attention if I try to read his books at home. At work he's a riveting read; at home he's a cure for insomnia.

Perhaps finding the right location for reading a book is a new way to renew your interest in reading. My Side of the Mountain, by Jean Craighead George, is the perfect book to read in a tent pitched in the backyard. Where better to read a biography of Babe Ruth than a baseball stadium?

This summer, I hope you have the best time finding the best places to read your books. If you need suggestions on where a particular book is best read, let us know, we've got lots of ideas.

"Every book has a particular place that will enrich its reading."

This Summer — Get Ready to Go!

Now's the time to relax, take a vacation — and catch up on your reading!

Calling all world travelers! Kids travel the globe this summer when they join One World, Many Stories, this year's summer reading program for children. Explore the world through stories, crafts, theater, music, science and other activities.

Novel Destinations is this year's summer reading theme for adults, with programs, prizes and special events planned to enhance the summer reading experience!

Both programs run from June 27 through August 19, and sign ups begin on June 27. Grab a flyer at the library, call us, or visit our web site for more information.

Friday Night Fun

Check out the Friday night Gazebo concerts this summer!

Don't miss the free Gazebo Concert Series this summer on Friday nights at 7 PM. The series kicks off on June 24 with the Jefferson Township Community and Jazz Bands.

Shows are sponsored by the Jefferson Township Gazebo Committee and the Jefferson Township Public Library. They are held at the Jefferson Township Gazebo located in the Municipal Complex at 1033 Weldon Road.

Featured this year are One-SizeFitsAll, a northern New Jersey hard-hitting, classic rock band on July 1; The James L. Dean Big Band, a versatile group that plays a variety of styles from 40s swing to rock standards to show tunes on July 15; Tequila Rose, performing "New Country" hits, country classics and classic rock on August 5; Eight Days of Blues, a six piece rockin' blues group performing originals and classics on August 12; Full Circle, a party/dance band featuring oldies, classic rock, British Invasion, Motown, and today's hits on August 19; and The Kootz, making great music with classics, pop, soul and blues of the 60s and 70s on August 26.

Concerts are free and open to the public. They will be moved indoors in the event of inclement weather. Please call 973-697-2032 or 697-3828 for updates.

New this year — enjoy Uncorked, an exciting improv troupe performing comedy skits during intermission at each show.

Bring your blanket or chair, non-alcoholic beverages, picnics and snacks, and get ready to rock!

Happy Father's Day!

The library will be closed on Sunday, June 19.

Classic Corner: The Old Man and the Sea

The ultimate big fish story, The Old Man and the Sea is classic Hemingway, though it's considerably shorter than his usual big hunt tales.

Experience the simple plot line (old man meets fish), the simple characters (old man, fish, sea), the simple and short sentences Hemingway is famous for, and the great hunter theme that separates the men from the boys (and girls) in his books. Feel the tension of the old man testing his physical stamina and will against nature on page after page.

This book is an efficient way both to taste Hemingway and to get a good fish story. And if it's just a bit too brief, there's always Melville's Moby Dick, though any child will tell you a whale isn't the same as a fish!

JUNE / JULY 2011

ALA's 2011 Notable Book List: Fiction *

Nashville Chrome by Rick Bass. This lovely and unsettling account of pop trio The Browns reels you in as though the concept of rags to riches were brand new.

Room: A Novel by Emma Donoghue. Five-year-old Jack vividly narrates the story of his life confined in a room with his mother in this unsettling exploration of resilience and hope.

A Visit from the Goon Squad by Jennifer Egan. A '70s punk band becomes the touchstone for a motley crew who spin their interconnected stories over time and distance.

Crooked Letter, Crooked Letter by Tom Franklin. Two men – one black, one white – must confront the secrets surrounding their childhood friendship following the disappearance of two girls in rural Mississippi.

Freedom by Jonathan Franzen. This incisive portrait of the fractured Berglund brood captures the zeitgeist of contemporary America.

Next by James Hynes. Reagan Arthur. Welcome to the worst day of Kevin Quinn's life as he battles the anxieties of the modern world in steamy Austin, Texas.

The Surrendered by Chang Rae Lee. The complex entangled lives of three people forever scarred by the Korean War are sympathetically portrayed in gorgeous prose.

Matterhorn: A Novel of the Vietnam War by Karl Marlantes. An ambitious and idealistic American Marine faces the horror, heroism, futility, and pragmatism of war in this visceral portrayal of life in-country.

The Thousand Autumns of Jacob de Zoet: A Novel by David Mitchell. A young clerk attempts to establish himself in the artificial and intense world of Dejima, the Dutch trading colony in 1800s Japan.

Skippy Dies by Paul Murray. Filled with warmth and humor, this coming-of-age novel set in a Dublin boys' school is a sprawling homage to adolescence, string theory, donuts, and unrequited love.

The Lotus Eaters by Tatjana Soli. The adrenaline high that danger offers infects photojournalist Helen Adams as she documents the war in Vietnam.

The Lonely Polygamist: A Novel by Brady Udall. In this big-hearted novel, Golden Richards and his clan navigate their chaotic lives as each clamors to be noticed.

Read the "rags to riches" story of pop trio The Browns.

Coming and Going...

If you've ever tried to enter or exit the library while carrying a heavy armload of books, struggling with a baby stroller or maneuvering your wheelchair, now is a time to rejoice! Most of you remember just how heavy and unmanageable the library front doors could be.

Recently we accomplished one of our goals by installing automatic doors at our front entrance. You may now enter and exit the library "hands-free!"

This makes coming and going a breeze ...so you'll come more often, right??

The Civil War Sesquicentennial

150 years—a time to reflect...

The 150th anniversary of the Civil War is an opportunity for Americans to reflect on the importance of this pivotal period in our nation's history.

The library will commemorate the event with a presentation by the Morris County Historical Society, The Conflict, the County and the Citizens: Morris County in the Civil War, on Sunday, August 7 at 2 PM.

The Taste of Poetry group will feature Civil War poetry on Wednesday, August 10 at 1 PM. Bring your lunch and your appetite for poetry.

Drop in on Sunday, August 21 at 2 PM to make berry ink and a feather pen. During the Civil War, soldiers in the South made ink out of berry juice and used feathers or corn stalks to write letters. Come try this Civil War activity!
